CONFERENCE CHAIRS WELCOME

Soon Ae Chun, Conference Chair & President of the Digital Government Society

Soon Ae Chun is a professor and director of the Information Systems and Informatics program and a doctoral faculty of Computer Science at the City University of New York. She leads the Information Security Research and Education Lab. Her research areas include Security and Privacy, Semantic data integration, Social Data Analytics and Workflow, focusing on applied areas in Digital Government and Public Health. She has worked on research and development for emergency management resource discovery, social media uses for public services, cross-organizational public service workflow customization, public engagement and transparency of policy decision making, Geospatial workflow generation, crowd-based environmental planning and policy, and policy/setting ontology for automatic discovery of services. She is the current president of the Digital Government Society, and served on the DGS Board, leading the communication committee.

Beth Simone Noveck, Jerry Hultin Global Network Professor at New York University’s Tandon School of Engineering

Beth Simone Noveck directs The Governance Lab and its MacArthur Research Network on Opening Governance. The GovLab strives to improve people's lives by changing how we govern. The GovLab designs and tests technology, policy and strategies for fostering more open and collaborative approaches to strengthen the ability of people and institutions to work together to solve problems, make decisions, resolve conflict and govern themselves more effectively and legitimately. She served in the White House as the first United States Deputy Chief Technology Officer and director of the White House Open Government Initiative (2009-2011). UK Prime Minister David Cameron appointed her senior advisor for Open Government, and she served on the Obama-Biden transition team.

Nabil R. Adam, Vice Chancellor for Research & Collaborations at Rutgers University-Newark

Nabil Adam is a Distinguished Professor of Computers and Information Systems at Rutgers University; the Founding Director of the Rutgers of the Institute for Data Science, Learning, and Applications (I-DSLA), and the Founding Director of the Rutgers CIMIC Research Center. He served as a Fellow to the US Department of Homeland Security-Science & Technology Directorate where he served as a Senior Program Manager, a Branch Chief and managed the Complex Event Modeling, Simulation, and Analysis program. He served as the technical lead for the Unified Incident Command & Decision Support System program, and initiated the Cyber-physical Systems Security initiative and the Social Media Alert and Response to Threats to Citizens (SMART-C) initiative.
PROGRAM CHAIRS WELCOME

Chris Hinnant, Program Chair of DG.O 2017

Chris Hinnant is an Associate Professor in the School of Information at Florida State University. Prior to joining the iSchool faculty at Florida State, he was a Fellow and Assistant Director in the IT Team at the U.S. Government Accountability Office. His primary research interests include digital government, social and organizational informatics, information management and policy, technological innovation, public management, social science research methods, and applied statistics. He is particularly interested in how public organizations employ Information and Communication Technology (ICT) to alter organizational processes and structures and how the use of ICT ultimately impacts institutional governance mechanisms.

Dr. Adegboyega Ojo, Program Co-Chair, DG.O 2017

Dr. Adegboyega Ojo is a Senior Research Fellow and the E-Government Group Leader (under the Linked Data Strand) at the Insight Centre for Data Analytics, National University of Ireland, Galway. He is currently investigating the semantic web and linked data in developing next generation Electronic Public Service Infrastructures; extract salient information from the social web to inform proactive engagement and management of citizens; and the open innovation both in government and governance of Smart Cities through the adoption and exploitation of Big, Open and Linked Data. He served as Academic Program Officer and Research Fellow at the Center for Electronic Governance, United Nations University – International Institute for Software Technology (UNU). At UNU, he supported governments in Africa, Asia, and Latin America; including Macao, Korea, Mongolia, Colombia, Cameroon and Nigeria.

WELCOME SPEAKERS

Louis A. Zacharilla, Co-Founder of Intelligent Community Forum

Louis Zacharilla is a social entrepreneur who is credited with initiating the global Intelligent Community movement. As one of founders of the Intelligent Community Forum he developed the Intelligent Community of the Year Awards program. He speaks to groups of community leaders worldwide to help them understand and implement the best practices of the world’s leading communities. He is the developer of the Top7 and Intelligent Community of the Year Awards programs and guides the strategy for the New York-based think tank’s programs. He was named a judge for the French-based World E-Democracy Awards program, is a member of the Australian-American Dialogue Council, a trustee of the Board of Directors of Walsh University (USA) and recently a member of the board of directors of the METRO New York Library Council.

James Oddo, Staten Island Borough President

James Oddo was elected Staten Island Borough President in November 2013. Prior to his election, he served as the Council Member representing the 50th Council district (Mid-Island and a small portion of Brooklyn) since 1999. He also served as the City Council’s Minority Leader from 2002 to 2013. In that role, he served as a key member of the Council’s leadership team. Oddo authored 19 local laws and brought back more than $165 million to improve his community in various ways. After working 15 years to make it a reality, in the final days of his tenure in the Council, Oddo joined EDC to announce an exciting redevelopment plan to turn the abandoned Farm Colony site into a senior citizen community. This project, one that took so long due to the global economic crisis, best personifies Oddo’s persistence and advocacy on behalf of his community.

As Borough President, Oddo is committed to attaining necessary aid for Staten Islanders impacted by Hurricane Sandy. He recognizes the frustration and havoc the situation has caused in their lives and is an advocate for all awaiting resolution from city, state and federal programs. In addition, Oddo is excited to see the waterfront development project for the North Shore become a reality. The project includes the highest observation wheel in the world, outlet shopping, a boutique hotel and residential communities that will transform the former Stapleton homeport and St. George community. Oddo is also keenly aware of other issues facing Staten Islanders every day. He wants to meet the challenges of island living by maximizing waterfront real estate with a fast ferry, reducing commute time for many residents. He also recognizes the need for infrastructure changes to meet the needs of the Island’s...
500,000 residents.

Dr. Susan L. Holak, Founding Dean of the School of Business, College of Staten Island

Dr. Susan L. Holak has served as the Founding Dean of the School of Business at the College of Staten Island since its inception in 2013. In this role, she has overseen the construction of the Con Edison Trading Room, the development of graduate and undergraduate curriculum in areas such as business data analytics and the business of healthcare, and the growth of an engaged network of alumni that reaches back sixty years. She formerly served as the Associate Provost for Institutional Effectiveness, and also holds faculty rank as a Professor of Marketing. As Associate Provost, Dr. Holak provided leadership in academic program review, accreditation, assessment, and the promotion of institutional effectiveness throughout the institution. Professor Holak also served as the area chairperson of marketing in the Business Department (2003-2007) and the Director of the Macaulay Honors College of CSI/CUNY (2005-2007).

Dr. Holak earned a B.S. in Economics (Magna Cum Laude) from the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, where she was named to Beta Gamma Sigma, the business honorary society. She received an M.Phil. and Ph.D. in Business from Columbia University.

Gale A. Brewer is the 27th Borough President of Manhattan, with a role in deciding land-use and zoning issues in the borough, appointment of members to the 12 community boards, and the ability to introduce legislation in the City Council. Since she took office in 2014, her bills to reform the deed restriction process and remove criminal history from initial employment applications have been enacted, and her pre-ULURP (“Uniform Land Use Review Procedure”) community planning groups have addressed development issues at the South Street Seaport and in East Midtown. Brewer previously served on the Council for 12 years, serving as Chair of the Technology Committee and the Government Operations Committee. Her legislation guaranteeing paid sick leave for most hourly employees, requiring all City data be published online, and protecting domestic workers from abusive practices-- the first such law in the nation-- has all been enacted.

Brewer has an MPA from Harvard’s Kennedy School of Government and did her undergraduate work at Columbia University and Bennington College. Brewer previously served as Chief of Staff to Council Member Ruth Messinger, NYC Deputy Public Advocate, Director of the city’s Federal Office, and Executive Director of Mayor Dinkins’ Commission on the Status of Women. She also was Project Manager for the NYC Nonprofits Project at CUNY’s Graduate Center and manager of an affordable housing project for the Telesis Corporation.
KEYNOTE SPEAKERS AND PANELISTS

Keynote Panelists on June 8

Todd Harbour is the Chief Data Officer (CDO) for New York State, where he orchestrates work to design and implement a data management regime for the Empire State. Todd’s work includes developing a data governance strategy, framework, and roadmap, defining a unified information architecture, realizing master data, coordinating data sharing, and establish a state-wide data analytics community of practice.

Prior to this role, Todd was a senior federal government official based in the Washington DC metropolitan area, where he led work to establish data strategies, business frameworks, and data management platforms, which helped provide a reliable basis for answering questions from Congress and organizational leaders. Previously, Todd served as senior vice president at FGM Inc., a software and systems engineering corporation in Northern Virginia. Todd is a certified Project Management Professional (PMP), Program Management Professional (PgMP), Scrum Master (CSM), and Chief Information Officer (CIO) with the Project Management Institute and National Defense University, respectively. Todd is also a certified Data Management Professional (CDMP) and Data Governance and Stewardship Professional (DGSP) with the Data Management Association (DAMA). Todd currently holds 4 graduate degrees in information systems, project management, business administration, and government information leadership.

Natalia Adler is the Data, Research and Policy Planning Specialist at UNICEF HQ, where she’s trying to leverage data science and expertise to tackle complex socioeconomic problems through data collaboratives with the private sector and academia. She has also conceptualized a “Cities for Children” initiative, looking at the intersection of urbanization, climate change and child rights in Latin America. Natalia has previously worked with UNICEF Nicaragua and Mozambique advancing human centered design, lean start-up techniques, entrepreneurial ecosystems, and public finance management for child rights.

Marijn Janssen is a full Professor in ICT & Governance and chair of the Information and Communication Technology (ICT) research group of the Technology, Policy and Management Faculty of Delft University of Technology. Dr. Janssen’s research interests are in the field of orchestration, shared services arrangements, and open and big data and infrastructures. He is Co-Editor-in-Chief of Government Information Quarterly, conference chair of IFIP EGOV series and is chairing mini-tracks at the dg.o, ICEGOV, HICCS and AMCIS conferences. He was ranked as one of the leading e-government researchers in surveys in 2009, 2014 and 2016, and has published over 400 refereed publications.
Theresa A. Pardo, Ph.D. is the director of the Center for Technology in Government at the University at Albany, SUNY and a full research professor in public administration and policy at Rockefeller College. Dr. Pardo is a co-developer of the top-ranked Government Information Strategy and Management concentration at the University of Albany and is past president of the Digital Government Society. Dr. Pardo serves as OpenNY Adviser to New York State’s Governor Andrew Cuomo and is Chair of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency’s National Advisory Committee. She is a member of the User Working Group of the NASA Socioeconomic Data and Applications Center (SEDAC). Additionally, Dr. Pardo is a member of the Steering Committee of the National Science Foundation funded North East Big Data Hub, an International Advisor to the E-Government Committee for the China Information Association, and serves as an Expert Advisor to the Open Data 500 Project.

Stefaan Verhulst is Co-Founder and Chief Research and Development Officer of the Governance Laboratory @NYU (GovLab) where he is responsible for building a research foundation on how to transform governance using advances in science and technology. Verhulst’s latest scholarship centers on how technology can improve people’s lives and the creation of more effective and collaborative forms of governance. Specifically, he is interested in the perils and promise of collaborative technologies and how to harness the unprecedented volume of information to advance the public good.

Moderator: Iryna Susha is a postdoctoral researcher in the Department of Informatics at Örebro University, a guest researcher at Delft University of Technology, and a visiting scholar at The Governance Lab of New York University. Iryna’s current research focus is on data collaboratives and how they can be efficiently used to address societal challenges. Her earlier works on open government, open data, and citizen participation have appeared in various international journals and conferences.
Keynote on Friday, June 9

Joel Gurin, President and Founder of the Center for Open Data Enterprise

Joel Gurin is President and Founder of the Center for Open Data Enterprise (www.OpenDataEnterprise.org), a Washington-based nonprofit that works to maximize the value of open data as a public resource. He also serves as a senior open data consultant to the World Bank. Before launching the Center in January 2015 he wrote the book Open Data Now and led the launch team for the GovLab’s Open Data 500 study and Open Data Roundtables. He previously served as Chair of the White House Task Force on Smart Disclosure and as Chief of the Consumer and Governmental Affairs Bureau of the U.S. Federal Communications Commission. For over a decade he was Editorial Director and then Executive Vice President of Consumer Reports, where he directed the development of ConsumerReports.org, the world’s largest paid-subscription information-based website. He can be reached at joel@odenterprise.org or through his Twitter handle, @joelgurin.
Wed June 7: DGS and ICF
Joint Conference Program

DGS  - Preconference Workshops and Tutorials
ICF   - Community Accelerator Day

This unique joint program is brought by the DGS and the ICF two global communities of researchers and practitioners in digital government. The DGS will hold its annual dg.o conference program with its specific topic oriented workshops, tutorials and PhD colloquium, while a central feature of ICF’s Community Accelerator is a Master Class for community developers. Summit 17 will provide a preview of Master Class content focusing on the different challenges facing urban and rural communities. The joint plenary panel sessions in the morning and afternoon will address the grand challenges facing connected communities via Information and Communication Technologies. The grand challenge questions and answers to push the digital government research agenda and practical solution designs.

Open Data: The State of the Art

Joel Gurin, President and Founder of Center for Open Data Enterprise, and Author of Open Data Now

Over the last decade, the open data movement has changed the ways governments, civil society, and the private sector work together. Beyond its importance for transparency, open data has become a tool for business development, research, public-private collaboration, and improving public services. This keynote will describe how the open data movement has evolved, current challenges and opportunities, and what lies ahead.
